Introduction:

In honor of the birth anniversary of Sardar Vallabhbhai Patel, an integral figure in the formation of modern India, the NSS Department of Late G. N. Sapkal College of Engineering orchestrated a unique event titled "Ekta Daud." The event aimed to showcase unity among NSS volunteers, despite physical distancing challenges posed by the ongoing Covid-19 restrictions.

The activity took place on October 31, 2020, and featured an innovative virtual running event. Understanding the limitations imposed by the pandemic, the organizers created a platform where students could participate remotely and express their unity for the national cause. The running activity was designed to allow participants to contribute to the event by posting screenshots of their activity app, capturing their distance covered during the run.

The response from NSS volunteers was nothing short of enthusiastic. Despite the physical distance that separated them, students actively engaged in the event, symbolizing the spirit of unity and togetherness that Sardar Vallabhbhai Patel embodied. The virtual nature of the run not only adhered to safety protocols but also allowed students to be part of a collective effort, emphasizing the importance of coming together as a nation even in challenging times.

Participants demonstrated their commitment to the cause by embracing the unique format of the event. The posted screenshots served as virtual markers of their participation, creating a visual representation of the collective effort that spanned across various locations.

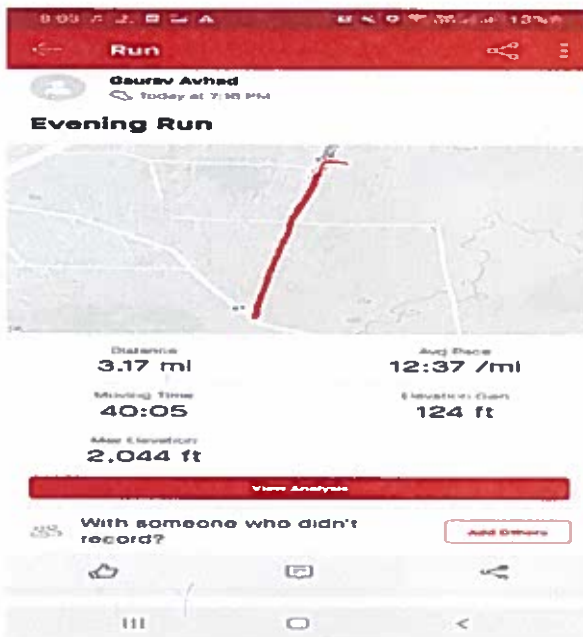

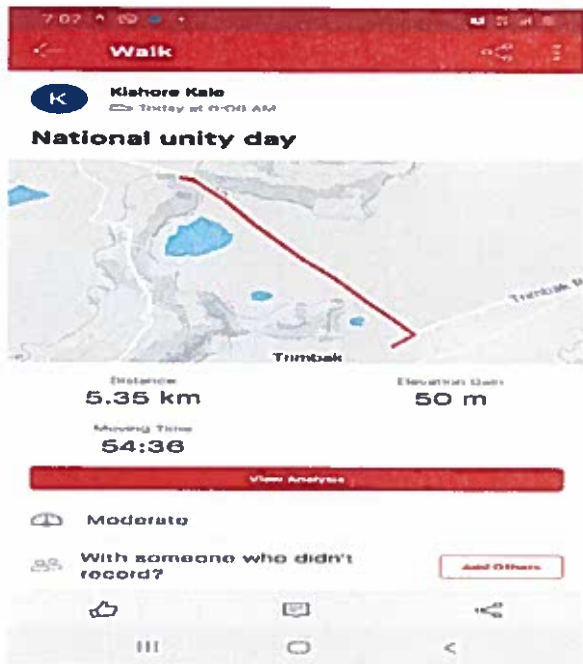

The "Ekta Daud" event stands as a testament to the resilience and adaptability of the NSS volunteers at Late G. N. Sapkal College of Engineering. In the face of unprecedented circumstances, the NSS Department successfully organized an event that not only commemorated a national leader but also reinforced the idea that unity knows no physical boundaries.

As we reflect on this innovative initiative, it is evident that even in times of adversity, the spirit of togetherness and patriotism remains unwavering among the students of Late G. N. Sapkal College of Engineering, highlighting the indomitable spirit of the youth in shaping a better and united future for the nation.
